

Lucas and the Little Bird

Hikayala.com Team

In a quiet German village covered by green meadows and surrounded by ancient forests, lived a gentle and tender-hearted boy named Lucas, who was only eight years old.

Lucas wore a short, soft woolen vest with comfortable short trousers, known for a kind heart that loved all creatures of nature.

On a cold day at the beginning of spring, Lucas found a wounded little baby bird that had fallen from its high nest in the edge of the forest, shivering from fear and cold.

Lucas stood contemplating the bird with immense tenderness, deciding immediately to care for and protect it until it fully healed.

He took the bird with extreme care, placed it in a warm wooden box, and lined it with soft herbs.

While Lucas was trying to bring some useful seeds for the bird, he tripped over his father's large shoes falling in a funny way with a quick roll onto a small pile of hay,

causing seeds to fly over his head and another little bird to jump towards him in surprise!

Lucas got up with an innocent smile, brushed the hay from his clothes, and continued caring for the bird with patience and affection.

On the day of farewell, He imagen how the bird would flew high in the sky and then returned to circle around Lucas's head singing melodies of thanks and gratitude, accompanied by flocks of other birds that brought beautiful flower seeds.

Everyone in the village learned that kindness and compassion toward creatures create true magic.

leaving his tale as a wonderful legacy passed down by children across all corners of the earth.
